State-NSTL facility bill awaits governor's okay

BY DENA BISNETTE

A $100 million general obligation bond bill providing funding for the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center is awaiting the signature of Governor William Allain.

According to State Senator Gene Taylor, the bill has passed both the Senate and the House of Representatives and has been signed by the lieutenant governor.

He said the bills remain to be signed only by the speaker of the House and the governor.

Taylor said Tuesday in a telephone interview from Jackson that the speaker's signature is "just a formality" and is not expected to take long to obtain.

The senator said he is unable to speculate on how long it will be before the governor signs the bill because of its complexity.

The bill includes a number of other projects in addition to the technology transfer center, which is presently under construction at NASA's National Space Technology

Laboratories in Hancock County.

About a third of the money is to be used for projects on the Gulf Coast, including the center, additional work at the Port of Gulfport and a port project in Jackson County, Taylor said.

Much of the remaining funding from the bonds will be made available to the state's smaller cities and counties on a project-by-project basis.

One project removed from the bond bill before it passed the House was the Institute of Technological Development, which is not the same as the technology transfer center.

The institute would have required two facilities, one in Jackson and one at Mississippi State University at Starkville, and would have been an ongoing expense rather than a one-time investment like the technology center, Taylor explained.

"I feel that Allain's going to sign the bill. He has stuck to his guns so far on his statement that there will be no tax increases and this is not a tax increase," the senator said.

Even if the bond bill is vetoed by Allain, Taylor feels there is enough support for it in the senate to obtain the two-thirds majority vote needed to overturn a veto.

In addition, there are two more bills presently tied up in House conferences that deal with the technology transfer center.

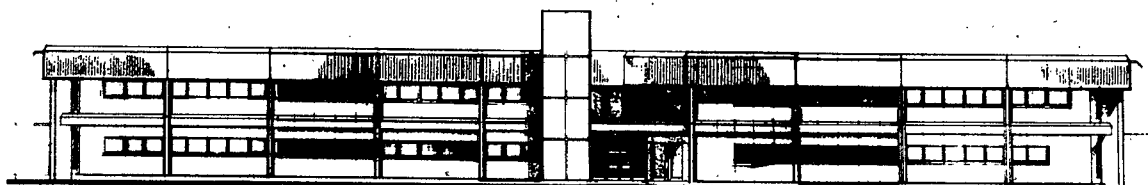

"We probably have more guarantees on this particular project than on anything else we've done. All the expenses have already been planned for," Taylor commented.

The other two bills include a $10 million bill for repair and renovation of existing state-owned facilities with a $2.8 million amendment for the center.

In addition, an appropriations bill of $700,000 was still in House conference Tuesday. That bill was designed to pay the costs of shutting down the construction project and paying off existing contract obligations after the Senate diverted the original funding to mental health programs.

WOODS FIRE—Approximately 37 acres near Lower Bay Road near US-90 were destroyed by a woods fire Monday. Area firefighters fought the blaze which was reported shortly before 11 a.m. until nearly 5 p.m. before bringing it under control. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Baldwin to try again for export license

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Baldwin Aircraft officials, who announced their intention to build a plant in Hancock County and employ 1,200 people in October, plan to resubmit an application for an export license this week to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Executive Vice President Arthur Peacock said Wednesday all additional information requested had been gathered and the application should be in Washington D.C. within a few days.

Baldwin has a contract with the Republic of China to build 532 single-seat reconnaissance planes to be used for surveillance purposes.

The original application was returned to the company in February because the State Department's Office of Munitions Control wanted more information to insure that the plane could not be readily converted to a fighter plane.

Peacock said Baldwin had not previously pushed for the export license because according to the terms of their contract with China, a demonstrator model of the plane must be delivered within eight months of the date the license is issued.

"We are not doing anything to expedite the issuance of the license until the decision is made on where the production facility it to be located,"

Peacock said.

The company secured an option to purchase 18.3 acres at the Stennis Air Industrial Park in December but the agreement expired earlier this month.

Peacock said the decision to locate in Hancock County had not been finalized and that the company was investigating the possibility of locating the plant at sites in Washington and Adams counties in Mississippi.

He also said the company had taken a "casual look" at sites in Alabama, Indiana and South Ireland.

"All three sites in Mississippi meet the criteria we are looking for but Hancock County does have a couple of advantages," Peacock said.

According to Peacock the advantages include a runway at Stennis that is equal in length to the longest runway in the state and the proximity to Gulfport's deep water port.

The Hancock County site does meet the criteria for the plant and no site has more advantages than Stennis does, he continued.

Peacock was in the county earlier this week meeting with local officials "to clarify Baldwin's position" regarding locating the plant at Stennis.

While here Peacock met with Port and Harbor officials, Chamber of Commerce President Richard Thomas, Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. and Supervisor A. A. Keller.

Port and Harbor Commission Director James DeBlanc said Peacock had requested that the commission not give out any further information regarding Baldwin.

Other area officials received the same request.

Farming under plastic new direction for county

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A Hancock County farmer is experimenting with a new technique of farming to combat increasing high costs of farm labor.

Rodney Reeves of Kiln is planting some crops this season under a sheet of black plastic.

The plastic which is secured on the rows in the field is reported to have several advantages including a substantial decrease in weed growth, holding moisture in the ground and warming the soil, Reeves said.

He estimates that by using the plastic instead of labor for weeding and herbicides, his savings will be between $90-$200 per acre.

In addition to the dollar savings, there is the attraction of getting away from the use of chemicals on the plants, Reeves said.

"Because of the new consciousness of the use of chemicals, the use of the plastic for weed control is very important," Reeves said.

Using chemicals can be a gamble because of weed and soil conditions, he said.

"Some chemicals don't do a lot of good and then you have the extra costs of man hours to do the weeding, but with the plastic you know there will be good weed control," he said.

With the crisis situation the agriculture industry across the country is facing, farmers everywhere are looking at new and improved methods of growing crops.

Reeves said he and Hancock County Extension Agent Lee Taylor had been looking for new ways to improve the production at his farm for couple of years before deciding to try the plastic.

Taylor has done extensive research, gathering information from farms in California and Florida about the advantages and disadvantages of using the plastic, Reeves said.

"I had seen this type of farming in Georgia and they have big horticulture crop there and thought it would work well here," Taylor said.

"Our main objective is to find out how it will work here in Hancock County," Taylor said.

Both Reeves and Taylor said they believe using the plastic may be a new direction for horticulture farming in the county.

Reeves said he was aware of the method for a couple of years but was wary of using the plastic because of the initial expense.

According to Reeves, the machine for laying the plastic, which is the major cost involved, costs between $1,800 and $2,400.

Another advantage of using the plastic for tomato growers is disease control, Reeves said.

Reeves demonstrated this by showing a diseased tomato plant which had fallen over on the ground compared to a healthy-looking plant.

Elderly Bay man mugged

Bay St. Louis Police Detective David Murtagh reported that Carl T. Smith, 99, of Bay St. Louis was robbed Monday at his home.

According to Murtagh, two black males approached Smith's residence and when he opened the door he was pulled outside and pushed to the ground as his wallet was stolen.

Smith reported that the two suspects got away with approximately $40 cash which was in the wallet.

Murtagh warned elderly residents to exercise caution before opening the doors of their homes when the caller is unknown.

We have noticed the many beautiful azaleas in bloom throughout the area.

They are in just about every color and size and popular in the yards of many residences.

The mild winter appears to have helped the azaleas after the hard freezes of the two previous years.

On a visit last weekend to my cousin's home in Waveland we noticed several hummingbirds busy collecting nectar from their azaleas.

A standout is the pink azalea bush in the Cedar Rest Cemetery in Bay St. Louis. This bush we have watched year after year as it blooms.

The azaleas are blooming in time for the annual Spring Pilgrimage.

Ladies of the Bay-Waveland and Diamondhead Garden Clubs were busy at the Hancock County Welcome Center on I-10 yesterday extending a special welcome to visitors to our state.

It was interesting watching the surprised expressions of many visitors when they received azalea and dogwood flowers from garden club members.

The greetings are a little extra added to those given by Sue VanZandt and her very helpful staff at the Welcome Center.

Our Welcome Center in Hancock County is the best in the state of Mississippi.

The Welcome Center along with NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories were on the Mississippi Gulf Coast's annual Spring Pilgrimage yesterday.

There are so many things to see at NSTL and we like to urge all citizens to visit the Visitors Center.

It is open every day except Christmas, and the tour is free.

Today is the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's annual Pilgrimage which starts at 10 a.m.

Several beautiful homes of the area will be open to the public along with the center's home on Leonhard Avenue starting at 10 a.m.

This is the highlight for the Bay-Waveland Garden Club of the year, and the ladies have made many preparations in addition to the owners of the homes which will be on display today.

Tomorrow Diamondhead's Garden Club with headquarters at the Community Center will be on the pilgrimage tour.

Club members and the owners of the homes on display in Hancock County's newest community have also been very busy in preparation for the pilgrimage.

We are hoping to see many folks today at the Bay-Waveland and tomorrow at Diamondhead's pilgrimages.

PRAISE FOR MISSISSIPPI

The words of praise came a few days ago from an executive recognized as one of the nation's top 100 young educators a couple of years ago.

The praise was for Mississippi's Education Reform Act of 1982 and the state's efforts to implement the act.

The words came from Dr. Chester Finn, now a key policy developer with the U.S. Department of Education, and formerly a Harvard and Vanderbilt University professor and a White House aide on education.

Dr. Finn had been in Mississippi five years ago, speaking to an annual membership meeting of the Mississippi Economic Council.

At that time he had just outlined for the nation ten steps for improving education in America.

Some of those steps brought criticism from public education professionals in Mississippi.

Dr. Finn talked about the need for discipline in the classroom, the need for tougher classroom standards for students and for more homework, the need to move to a higher standard of excellence in teacher performance.

Dr. Finn was back in Mississippi, addressing the Mississippi Professional Educators Association. He praised the state's Education Reform Act and efforts for implementation. At the same time, he cautioned that reform implementation "is not free."

And, he appealed to state leaders to continue efforts to upgrade salaries for teachers—wor-

JACKSON— Every possible revenue source is apparently going to be out on the table in the 30-day extension of the 1986 legislative session in what could become the widest scene at the State Capitol since the monumental battle to enact the sales tax 54 years ago.

The extension of the session has become obligatory since the lawmakers have failed after 80 days to find any reasonable solution to the deepest state budgetary crisis since 1932.

Of course, it is still not impossible for the Legislature to simply walk off April 6 when the 1986 session is scheduled to end, and leave state governmental services, save only the public schools, in a state of collapse from sledgehammer budget cuts.

The Senate, which has taken the position all along that additional taxes will have to be raised to pull the state through the crisis, will have the final say-so on setting the agenda for the 30-day extension.

The House made the first move toward an extension last week, by getting a consensus between two factions representing the leadership and the growing group of rebels that additional time will be needed to come up with at least a "survival" budget. But the House is still on a no-tax kick and the agenda of both House factions is solely based on tax alternatives coupled with a massive cut-and-squeeze budgetary operation.

Senators last week were extremely skeptical of practically all the items in the "grab-bag" list of alternatives offered by the House. Several big items in the list such as closing the veterinary medicine school at MSU and the UM dental school have already been killed on the House floor.

It appeared certain that the Senate will not give the two-thirds vote necessary to extend the session unless the House includes some specific tax sources for consideration in the extended session.

One possible bargaining area between the two branches may be a state lottery. The lottery measure had died on the Senate calendar in February for lack of about four votes in having the necessary two-thirds margin for passage.

Several key backers of the lottery in the Senate believe they have a better chance of passing it now than earlier because of the urgency of the fiscal crunch. Since the House has a lottery on its list of tax alternatives, the Senate could promise to revive the lottery if the House opens the door to consider such tax areas as the income tax and a gasoline tax hike.

In view of the 40-cent drop in gasoline prices within the past several weeks, a number of senators, led by Sen. Nevin Sledge of Cleveland believe the Legislature is wasting a valuable opportunity in not immediately slapping on a 5-cent per gallon gas tax to capture some of the windfall consumers are getting from the price drop.

A 5-cent per gallon gas tax hike would yield between $55 and $60 million new revenue which could be put into the general fund, or dedicated to traditional use on highways. The state highway program is now taking $50 million out of sales tax revenues, which many believe should be terminated.

Some lawmakers are also concerned that the State Aid Road Program which was launched 36 years ago, and was to be completed and turned over to the counties way back in 1962, is still taking $45 million a year out of state sales taxes.

The Senate is expected to push income tax as a must item in its showdown with the House over what will be considered in the extended session to cope with the fiscal crisis.

There was growing interest last week among senators to restore personal income tax exemptions to the pre-1979 level. A massive income tax cut in 1979 had almost doubled the amount of income exempted from the state income tax, giving Mississippi by far the lowest income tax burden in the Southeast.

Some lawmakers were surprised to learn that State Tax Commission analysts estimate that just the restoration of personal exemptions to the pre-1979 level would produce a whopping $95 million in additional revenues.

Senator Sledge, one of the leading advocates of a tax package containing income and gasoline taxes, along with the state lottery, contends that the state is actually facing a $250 million deficit for FY 87 based on the present tax structure.

"We are going to have to make some cuts and tighten up some programs, but there is no way we can keep from destroying state government if we don't raise a substantial amount of revenue," Sledge maintained.

Meantime, supporters of higher education were believed preparing to mount a drive to put pressure on the Legislature to raise additional revenues. The danger has arisen that a 21 percent cut projected for the universities would force them into what is regarded as educational bankruptcy in recognized academic circles.

This session is a long way from being over, you can bet on that.

Credence given to anonymous letter questioned

March 24, 1986

To the Editor:
I am very disturbed by the recent fiasco brought on by the arrival of an anonymous letter to the Bay St. Louis-Waveland school board.

To impugn the integrity or qualifications of the new superintendent on the basis of an anonymous letter is unthinkable and can have far reaching effects.

I have to question Mrs. Penrose in giving any credence to a letter such as this.

Many people have been working very hard to attract more industry to Hancock County.

A big factor in any decision to relocate is always the public school system.

Positive steps have been taken recently to enhance the school — such as the activities of the Chamber of Commerce Education Committee and the Search Committee for a New Superintendent.

The search committee was made up of qualified interested people.

Now, by the public disclosure of this unsubstantiated letter, not only do the superintendents' abilities come into question — but those of the search committee as well.

There are still some questions to be answered—

1. Who was the original recipient of the letter and how was it distributed to the school board members?

2. Why wasn't the letter mentioned to the school board in private instead of being brought up before the press?

There are only losers in a situation such as this — the school board, search committee, school system, new superintendent and Hancock County.

Sincerely,
Mary E. McDonnell

School construction costs compared

March 25, 1986

Dear Sir,
I would like to take this opportunity to commend the Bay-Waveland School Board and school system for wanting to get the most out of their money.

Our Hancock County School Board needs to take lessons from the Bay-Waveland school system. The Bay-Waveland Board is planning to build eight new kindergarten classrooms, as reported in the Feb. 27 Sea Coast Echo, while the Hancock County board will be building six new classrooms.

It's interesting to see the difference in the amount of money that will be spent, especially since the Bay-Waveland board made it more competitive by allowing other architects to have equal opportunity.

The Bay-Waveland board will be building their eight new classrooms, according to their architect's cost estimate, for $295,000. In contrast, the Hancock County board, as reported in The Sea Coast Echo on August 25, 1985, has received a cost estimate for their six new classrooms from their architect of $340,000 (plus an additional $47,500 for covered walkways, or a total of $387,500).

That's $36,875 per classroom to be spent by Bay-Waveland and $64,583 per classroom by Hancock County!!!

The Hancock County School Board will be spending 15 percent more of the taxpayer's money and will be getting two fewer classrooms than is the Bay-Waveland board.

And the tragedy is that Hancock County's Gulfview School, in my understanding, needs eight, not six new classrooms for next fall.

Six new classrooms will leave at least one and perhaps two classrooms still located in temporary locations off campus.

Not only am I concerned about the 7 percent rather than 6 percent architect's fee being paid by the Hancock County board, but I feel the board's architect draws up specifications that exceed by a considerable amount the requirements of state law for size of classrooms, and other construction features.

Again, congratulations to the Bay-Waveland board and school system for exercising fiscal responsibility as well as getting on with it and getting the job done.

Sincerely yours,
Robert W. Seaton
Waveland, Miss.

Housekeeping

Weekly Summary
from
Mississippi House of Representatives

By Andrew Reese
House Information Officer

JACKSON— An innovative program to help cities and counties in economic development projects has been approved by the Mississippi Legislature amid continuing efforts by House of Representative members to harness state budget problems.

The Mississippi Business Investment Act was among several bills gaining final passage as legislators wound up the 11th week of the 1986 session.

The measure, if signed by the governor, would allow issuance of state bonds to provide loans and grants for local economic development projects that qualify for assistance.

A revised version of bills approved previously by the House and Senate, the legislation had been sent to a conference committee to iron out differences.

The conference report was adopted in both chambers after a lively floor fight developed earlier in the House on whether the bill should include provisions helping fund the Institute of Technology Development, a non-profit economic research corporation.

The controversy was settled when the ITD language was removed from the bill.

As passed, the measure authorizes the issuance of up to $100 million in bonds for the program, but limits the bonds to not more than $50 million in the coming year. The program is aimed at helping local governments secure projects such as the Boeing plant in Greenville and a four-ship Navy base in Pascagoula, but also could have far-reaching impact across the state in stimulating local economic expansion.

Appropriation bills drew most of the attention in the House last week. In all, the House passed more than 90 bills to fund state agencies and institutions in the coming fiscal year. Most of the bills were passed earlier by the Senate but in different amounts, and eventually wound up in House-Senate conference committees to resolve differences.

Conference committees are part of the normal appropriations process in trying to provide essential services to the people but hold spending within anticipated income. The job has been especially tough this year due to the state's tight-money situation, causing a sharp reduction in proposed budgets for most agencies.

House members voted last week to allocate more than $61 million from the state's general fund to fund mental health programs, an increase of $7.4 million over a Senate-passed bill. The measure, like other appropriations, was sent to conference.

Numerous general bills also have been referred to conference committees to thrash out House-Senate differences including measures to provide more uniform school laws, revise state election laws, regulate credit life insurance, reorganize health care programs, reduce assessment ratios on homes and farmland, and establish more workable conflict-of-interest laws for public officials.

With the 1986 session slated to end April 6, there were strong indications at the start of this week that an extension may be necessary because of the financial troubles.

Two sets of alternative proposals to cope with budget problems, and hopefully avoid a general tax increase, were developed by House members and then combined last week into a single package for lawmakers to consider.

The fate of the package and the in-

Kmart provides Easter food baskets for the needy

The Waveland Kmart store will join other Kmart stores across the nation to provide Easter holiday meals for over 21,000 needy families in their communities.

Friday, March 28, each of the 2,100 Kmart stores will deliver Easter meals to ten needy families from their communities, Kmart Chairman Bernard M. Fauber said.

Waveland Kmart Manager Michael Bettis said the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce had assisted in locating 10 needy families in Bay St. Louis and Waveland to be given the food baskets.

"In addition to ham, potatoes, vegetables and bread the baskets will also contain Easter candy," Bettis said.

"The Easter food program is representative of Kmart's concern for the 35.3 million persons who live in poverty in our country," Fauber said. "Corporations have the power and resources to reach out to these people during this holiday season. Kmart asks other U.S. businesses to reach out and help the communities they live and work in by providing food for the needy," Fauber added.

Last year, Kmart stores nationwide provided over 50,000 needy families with food baskets during the Thanksgiving and Christmas season.

Kmart Corporation had fiscal 1985 sales of $22.4 billion. It owns and operates more than 3,800 retail stores in the U.S., Puerto Rico and Canada. These include the Kmart discount department stores; Kresge variety stores; Jupiter discount stores; Furr's Cafeterias; Bishop Cafeterias; Designer Depot, an off-price specialty apparel chain; Waldenbooks, the nation's largest bookstore chain; Pay Less Drug Stores; Northwest, one of the nation's largest retail drug chains and Builders Square, a rapidly growing do-it-yourself home improvement chain.

Administrator predicts rapid growth for new county hospital

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Work at the site of the new county hospital is progressing, and within the next 30 days concrete should be poured.

"The building is taking on the shape of a real hospital," said Philip Wolfe, Hancock General Hospital administrator.

Wolfe was the guest speaker at a meeting of Hancock Community Services Coordinating Council last week at the Waveland Resort Inn.

"This is going to be one of the nicest facilities I have ever seen and the county is fortunate to have such a building and equipment available," he added.

Wolfe said health care in the community would have been crippled in the next few years if the new facility were not being built.

"There would have been radical changes in the services available in the health care field in Hancock County if we had continued in the old hospital," he added.

"It is important for our children and grandchildren to have a place in the future to go when they are ill," Wolfe said.

The new hospital will initially have 60 beds with an option to add 40 more beds which Wolfe predicts will be done in the next couple of years.

"This county actually has the population to justify a 120-bed hospital at this time," he said.

To support that size of a hospital Wolfe said some of the people going to Gulfport and New Orleans for health care services would have to stay in the county.

Wolfe said he believes the community would be able to support a larger hospital soon because the number of people needing health care in Hancock County is increasing and the population is increasing.

Hancock General's occupancy is approximately 62 percent while the national average ranges from 50 to 60 percent.

Also at the meeting Wolfe stated that the county is not financially liable for the hospital.

"Many people have questioned this but the county is not responsible for the hospital because the bonds are privately guaranteed," he said.

Wolfe also said the new hospital is targeted to be open in January 1987 but that construction had been delayed by hurricanes last fall and the date could be too early.

Crapemyrtle tree distribution planned

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club will plant two crapemyrtle trees as a tribute to Catherine Cole who pioneered the growing of crapemyrtles in Bay St. Louis.

During the early 1890s, Ms. Cole, famous feature writer for the New Orleans Picayune and sister of the late Mrs. Bernard Shields, wrote a letter to The Echo suggesting as a feature for publication suggestions that the city might plant rows of crapemyrtle trees down both sides of principal streets.

She pointed out the trees matured quickly, bloomed profusely all summer and the foliage was not the kind when falling in the fall would cover the streets and sidewalks with leaves.

City officials appreciated the suggestion but took no action. The publisher of The Echo acted on the line which grew and bloomed profusely.

Catherine Cole resided at the corner of Carroll and Beach Boulevard. Her home is gone but the lot, now owned by Dr. M. J. Wolfe, Sr. will be the scene of the dedication and planting at 9 a.m. Wednesday, April 2.

As a continuation of last year's program the Bay-Waveland Garden Club will have crapemyrtle trees available for distribution that day at 10 a.m. at the Garden Center on Leonhard Avenue.

There will be a limit of three trees per household for a donation of 50 cents each.

Distribution is a combined project of Adams-Lorraine Nursery and the Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

Telephone company manager discourages signs on poles

Nailing signs to utility poles may seem like a good way to promote a garage sale or a political candidate, but the nail that holds up the sign could endanger a utility repair technician who has to climb the pole, according to South Central Bell's District Manager, Pat Santucci.

"A lot of people don't realize that the signs and nails can make pole climbing more difficult, resulting in more danger of falls," she said.

A nail can prevent the "gaff" used by the pole climber from entering the pole, or it may cause the gaff to give way, said Santucci. It also may damage the point of the gaff and cause problems later on.

Even the signs can pose a danger. Cardboard signs may get in the climber's way, and metal signs could pose a risk of injury in the case of a slip.

Eggs, the symbol of Spring and rebirth from earliest times, were viewed by the early Christians as a mark of the Resurrection, and were a quite important part of the Easter feast — especially since the use of eggs was forbidden during Lent in those days of old!

Spring, of course, is a time of jubilation for just about all faiths, as Christians celebrate the Resurrection, and those of the Jewish faith celebrate Passover, as religion and nature come together in glorious rebirth.

The ancient Persians, so history tells us, were the first to dye eggs in brilliant colors, and they were soon followed by the Egyptians and the Chinese, all of whom used eggs to brighten up their Spring Festivals symbolizing birth and new life.

And, later on, so I understand, in the thirteenth century, King Edward I of England — at least, I'm almost sure that it was he — issued a royal command: that 400 eggs be boiled and then covered in gold leaf, so that he might present them to his household staff at Easter!

Well, I don't think that I'll find any gold leaf Easter eggs in my basket — but I'll settle for an Easter Egg Hunt with my grandsons.

And, if the little ones are wondering why the Easter Bunny goes about hauling brightly colored eggs in baskets, as no other self-respecting bunny would do (they'd much rather be decimating your cabbage patch or other vegetable patch, wouldn't they?) just spin them this little tale:

Easter, the goddess of Spring, according to ancient and oft told tales, long ago in a whimsical mood and in an attempt to amuse some little children, changed her pet bird into a rabbit — so that, I suppose, is why the Easter bunny builds nests and fills them with Easter eggs!

Which brings about the next question — what do you do with all those brilliantly colored hard boiled eggs after the Easter Egg Hunt is over? Of course, some eggs are smashed in the process of the hunt, some are eaten out of hand, and some just never are seen again!

Well, I refrigerate the left-over eggs, of course, tossing out those which are cracked or stepped-upon or half-munched, and after they're well chilled, I make:

CAJUN EGGS

(I've heard these called Scotch Eggs or Scotch Woodcock, also, by Britishers)

6 hard-cooked eggs, well chilled
3/4 to 1 lb. smoked or other sausage, bulk form
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup flour
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
Black or cayenne pepper, hot pepper sauce, salt, if desired

Wrap the sausage around the eggs (I find it easier to form the sausage meat into six sort-of-round patties before doing so). Dip the sausage-covered eggs into flour, then into the beaten egg, then into the seasoned bread crumbs.

Next, let them rest a while in the refrigerator, as with any breaded food, as it makes them fry better. Fry in deep, hot fat for several minutes, or until you're sure that the sausage is fully cooked. Drain well, and serve the eggs whole, or even quartered, for "finger food" as an appetizer. (Six appetizer servings, unless I'm around!)

School board tape problem blamed on old machine

BY DENA BISHNETTE

An old battery-operated tape recorder and low quality tapes have been blamed for a failure to record parts of two meetings of the Bay-St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board.

Board President Betty Diboll investigated the matter after the board discovered last week that a discussion concerning an anonymous letter to board members had not been recorded.

The letter questioned the credentials of recently hired Superintendent Roger D. Oge.

Diboll said she had tested the tapes of the March 17 and March 20 meetings on several different tape recorders and had found that parts of both had not recorded properly.

"It is my opinion after thorough investigation that the tape machine and the tapes we are using to record school board meetings are inferior," Diboll said.

"The tape machine is about six to seven years old and is run by batteries. The tapes being used for those two meetings were low quality."

"My recommendation to the school board will be to purchase a good machine using specifications provided to us by a person who has the knowledge, educational training and experience to recommend the type of machine to buy," Diboll said.

She said the board will probably ask for a recommendation from Bay High Librarian Mary Frances Hillman, who assisted Diboll in the investigation.

Diboll said that Hillman has a master's degree in media science and meets all of the qualifications needed in order to select a suitable type of recorder.

The type of tape being used must also be changed, Diboll said.

"The tapes should be of top quality in order to record the entire meetings and should be of the type that will record a meeting of a normal time frame."

"These tapes should last us for years, because one of these days we may have to go and check records," she explained.

"It is my definite opinion that the tapes of the last two meetings were not tampered with or altered. In no way am I or any other board member, to my knowledge, holding anyone responsible for the tapes of the last two meetings," she added.

Bay Superintendent's Secretary Dominica Favre, who usually records the meetings, said the tape of the meeting about the letter ran out during a presentation by architect Jules LaGarde.

She said Board Member Linda Penrose, who brought the matter of the letter to public attention a few minutes before the meeting adjourned, was not on the tape.

She added that the recorder lacks a light or other indicator to show that the tape has run out.

"The tapes were not tampered with; they just ran out before the meetings did."

Financial specialist named to aid distressed farmers

Cooper Walton, administrative assistant with the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, has been appointed by Commissioner Jim Buck Ross to work with farmers and groups of farmers with financial problems.

Walton has worked with the Farmers Home Administration for 40 years as a county supervisor, district supervisor, and state loan officer in Mississippi. He is familiar with the problems farmers face across the state.

Farmers or groups of farmers needing Walton's assistance may call his office Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. until noon and 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. His efforts will be coordinated with other state and federal agencies.

The telephone number is 601-359-3748.

Jehovah's Witnesses to assemble in Biloxi

Biloxi coliseum will host a semi-annual assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses come March 29 and 30.

Sherman Cole, a local minister, said approximately 3,500 delegates representing 27 congregations from Southern Mississippi are expected to attend.

The theme for the assembly, Cole said, is "Love for the Worldwide Brotherhood." The program will start at 10 a.m. each morning.

"Many aspects of this love, that is so necessary as a bonding agent, will be considered. While hatred and prejudice continue to plague this world, God's people must manifest love," he said.

A case of anthrax in cattle was confirmed March 20 by the Board of Animal Health Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory in Jackson, according to State Veterinarian Harvey F. McCrory.

Anthrax is an acute disease of virtually all warm-blooded animals and man, and it usually causes death in cattle.

"Mississippi is in an area where there are repeated outbreaks of anthrax, especially in the Delta region," said Dr. McCrory.

"We want to alert owners in areas where we have had anthrax problems to be on the watch. If an animal dies suddenly, we encourage the owner to contact a local veterinarian for examination and diagnosis."

Dr. Stuart Denman Jr., a practicing veterinarian in Charleston, made an examination of the diseased animal and sent tissues to the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory. There, the proper tests were made and the disease outbreak confirmed.

The anthrax was discovered at a farm in Talahatchie County.

Anthrax is caused by a spore-forming organism which contaminates soil and may persist there for many years. It can then get into an animal's food supply. However, with annual vaccinations, the disease can be controlled.

The major objectives of the Mississippi Board of Animal Health are to eradicate and control diseases of livestock and poultry, and to assist owners in more effective and economical means of meat and milk production.

Soccer Report

Under-14 Bays II won on Saturday at Biloxi Stadium over the Biloxi II team 4-1 with Kevin Bourg scoring three goals and Wes Gipson scoring one goal.

On Sunday, March 23, Bays II met Bays I at the St. Augustine Field. Final score, Bays I - 4, Bays II - 1.

If you have begun the flexibility exercises given in last week's column, you are ready to begin exercises to strengthen the back and stomach muscles. One by one incorporate the abdominal and back strengthening exercises which get progressively more difficult. DO NOT perform any exercise that causes unusual pain or aggravates an existing condition. The exercises should feel comfortable and not create a strain. Repeat each one 6 to 10 times once or twice per day, remembering to perform them slowly and correctly.

Abdominal Strength

Lie on your back with knees at 90 degrees and feet flat on the floor:

- Lift your head and shoulders off the floor with a curling motion, arms stretched out in front - hold for one second and lower slowly.

- Curl up in a similar manner, except with a twisting motion keep both hands outside your left knee. Repeat by rotating to the right, passing both hands outside the right knee.

- Hold your feet off the floor, in the air keeping your knees bent at a 90 degree angle. Clasp your hands behind your head and curl up. Try touching your left knee with your right elbow. Repeat on the other side.

Back Strength

- Lie face down with a pillow providing support under your stomach. Lift one leg off the floor to a horizontal position and lower slowly.

- Place arms out in front over your head and alternate raising one arm then the other arm.

- Place the pillow under your hips and lift both legs at the same time to the horizontal position. Lower slowly.

- Place the pillow under your chest and place arms at your side. Lift your head and trunk off the floor. Lower slowly.

Remember, in most instances back pain is a condition you do not learn to live with; rather it is a condition that you can learn to live without!

Coach Paul Montjoy of Under-14 Bay Area Youth Soccer II Team discusses tactics with his players before a game.

Dynamite splits pair with Slidell

Gifts-n-Gold Dynamite Girls Under-12 soccer team played two games against Slidell Select Girls Under-12 winning the first game 2-0 and losing the second 1-0 at Waveland Elementary field Saturday.

Goals for Dynamite were made by Erin O'Brien and Day Hayes.

Dynamite of the Bay Area Youth Soccer league also participated recently in a private clinic presented by Roy Patton, the head soccer coach at The University of South Alabama in Mobile.

Patton came to Mobile from Belfast, Ireland, where he played professional soccer with the Irish First Division Glentoran Football Club and Bangor Football Club.

Over the last five years at the helm of the NCAA Division I Jaguars in Mobile, Patton has compiled a 51-25-7 record. He holds a master's degree in education, is a fully qualified coach, and has directed more than 30 soccer camps and clinics throughout the United States.

Emphasis of Saturday's clinic was on skills. After a thorough warm-up routine the girls drilled on different passing, trapping, heading, and dribbling techniques.

Limited offensive and defensive patterns were also introduced. With district competition only a month away, Dynamite coach Kathy Edwards feels the clinic gives her team an added advantage.

Patton will direct a summer overnight camp, "Soccer for Thinkers" at the University of South Alabama July 20-25.

For information call or write Coach Roy Patton, Athletic Department, HPELS 1065, University of South Alabama, Mobile, AL 36688. Tel. (205) 460-7121.

Coast takes seven of eight tennis matches against Columbia

Coast Episcopal High School Tennis Team Tuesday scored a 7-1 victory over Columbia Academy of Columbia in Private School Association matches at Gulfport Racquet Club on Courthouse Road.

Coast coach Lambert Boyd reports results of the seven matches include:

No. 1 Boys Singles— Billy Guice defeated Porter Wilks 6-4, 7-6.

No. 1 Girls Singles— Sandy Carter defeated Millie Wilks 6-3, 7-5.

No. 1 Boys Doubles— John McNeese and Drew Middleton of Columbia defeated Eric Grassit and Paul Montjoy 6-3, 6-4.

No. 1 Girls Doubles— Ellie Merrick and Carolyn Carter defeated

Terri Morgan and Renea Oglesbee 6-3, 6-3.

No. 2 Boys Singles— David Williams beat Joe McNeese 6-1, 6-1.

No. 2 Girls Singles— Ashley Dattel defeated Tammy Morris 6-0, 6-0.

No. 2 Boys Doubles— Chris Riggs and Duncan Matheson defeated Jeff Morris and Kenton McNeese 6-4, 6-1.

No. 2 Girls Doubles— Susannah Shellnut and Nancy Drury defeated Elaine Blansett and Trudi Sartin 6-1, 6-1.

Coast is 2-0 for the season with victory over Columbia there earlier this month.

The Raiders will meet East Rankin Friday, April 11 at Gulfport Racquet Club following Spring break March 27 through April 6.

SSC-OLA Tennis Team off to winning start

Coach Myron Labat and Barbara Powell have led the SSC-OLA tennis team to a 4-1 overall and 1-0 District records.

The team owns victories over a strong Biloxi squad, Mercy Cross, Harrison Central and Hancock North Central.

Against HNC in District competition, the SSC-OLA team blanked the Hawks 5 matches to 0 in varsity play and 3-0 in B Team play.

Singles players Sam Morse and Cynthia Martinovich have led the team with their play.

In men's doubles, Steve Bouis and Tom Cook have consistently won their matches, and in women's doubles Nicole Montagnet and Monique Le Bourgeois have rallied to beat their opponents.

In mixed doubles, David Bourgeois and Betsy Bryant have performed well.

Wednesday afternoon the team traveled to Gulfport to play St. John. Results were not available at press time. Next Thursday afternoon the SSC-OLA team hosts Piquette with matches beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Body builders to vie for contest titles at UM

Two body building titles will be on the line Saturday, April 5, when the winners of the Southern Collegiate Body Building Championship and Mr. Ole Miss contests are chosen at The University of Mississippi.

The competition finals, which will be held at 8 p.m. in Meek Hall auditorium, are open to the public. The Southern Collegiate Body Building Championship is an open event, and entrants will be accepted through Saturday morning until just prior to the 10 a.m. preliminary competition.

Five Ole Miss students have already been selected to vie for the title of Mr. Ole Miss in a contest sponsored by the Ole Miss Weightlifting Club.

General admission tickets for the finals are $6 for the general public and $5 for students. VIP tickets for reserved seats among the front rows of the auditorium are $9.

Tickets are available through the Central Ticket Office, Ole Miss Union, University, MS 38677, telephone (601) 232-7411.

The Southern Collegiate Body Building Championship is sponsored by the National Physique Committee and is open to college students of southeastern states from Texas to Virginia. An entry fee of $20 will be required of all participants.

Rockachaws rally to defeat Pass High and tie George County

The St. Stanislaus Rockachaws of Coaches Rod Herring and Jerry Spell improved their record to 3-3 with a come-from-behind win over the Pass Christian Pirates Saturday afternoon in a game played at the Stanislaus baseball field.

Pass High exploded for six runs in the top of the first to enjoy a comfortable lead. Humphrey, Henderson, Rod Jenkins, Boney, Hinderson, and Wahl all scored for the Pirates in the first inning.

Winning pitcher Louis Schruff

then settled down and held the Pirates scoreless until the last inning.

The Rockachaws fought back with two runs in the bottom of the third inning when Jay Artigues and Yasin Shabazz rapped singles with two outs. A walk to designated hitter Mark Logan and a single by Phil Wittmann scored both Artigues and Shabazz. Schruff struck out to end the rally with the pirates on top 6-2.

The Rocks took a 7-6 lead with a five-run rally in the bottom of the fifth. With one out, both Artigues and Shabazz again hit singles.

Logan's fielders choice forced the first out, but Phil Wittmann and Louis Schruff both followed with singles. William Scarborough's single accounted for the Rocks scoring their seventh run to take the lead. Jake Welsh and Rocky Rhodes accounted for the final two outs.

In the bottom of the sixth, the Rocks picked up three more runs when David Pitolo walked and Jay Artigues hit his third single of the game. Yasin Shabazz was safe on an error by the second baseman, and Mark Logan singled, followed by Phil Wittmann's third single and third RBI. Pirates pitcher Rod Jenkins then retired the next three Rockachaw batters in order, with the Rocks holding a 10-6 lead.

But the Pirates fought back in the top of the seventh inning when Bubba Boney and V. Henderson both walked. Schruff retired Wahl and Conway, but a walk to R. Humphrey loaded the bases. G. Smith's single scored two and Henderson's single scored Humphrey as the Rocks held on to a 10-9 advantage with Pirate in scoring position.

Schruff then got Rod Jenkins to pop up to second baseman Jay Artigues to end the exciting game.

Tuesday's District game with George County at Rockachaw stadium ended in a 2-2 tie which had to be called due to darkness after eight innings.

Mark Logan went all eight innings for the Rocks, allowing George County two runs in the top of the third inning. The Rocks struck back with lone runs in the sixth and seventh innings. Louis Schruff scored for the Rocks in the sixth, and Jay Artigues tied the game in the bottom of the seventh on his single.

The game will be finished in April when the Rocks travel to George County for the second District encounter between the two teams.

Today the Rocks play an important District game against St. Martin, who won the District last year.

Flowers, Coach Richard Flowers, Michael Mancuso, John Paul Dube, Jeremy Turcotte, Nicholas Ferguson, and Erin Farve. Not pictured are team members Luke Weems and Robby Lumpkin.

WINNERS AT ST. STANISLAUS— Mrs. Larry Logue of New Orleans and Richard Warman of Waveland, right, are congratulated by Brother Aquin Gauthier as winners of a $10,000 St. Stanislaus High School fund-raising award Friday night. Logue and Warman split the prize. (SSC photo)

News Brief

Debbie Wharton of Bay St. Louis was one of eight members of the Pearl River College band who were selected to perform in the Junior College All-State band last Saturday in the Performing Arts Center at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Students chosen to the band included Diane Davis, Poplarville, trumpet; Angelina Giarusso, Poplarville, mallet percussion; Kevin Lee, Poplarville, percussion; Walter Gipson, Picayune, trumpet; Michael Pugh, Picayune, trombone; Amy Herklotz, Hattiesburg, flute; Sharon Laird, Hattiesburg, trumpet; and Wharton, clarinet.

Two alternates elected were Herman Lizana, Lumberton, tuba; and Lisa Patterson, Waveland, french horn.

These students were picked from a list of most outstanding instrumentalists by a state selection committee.

ACT preparation sessions planned

HATTIESBURG— High School students planning to take the American College Test (ACT) may benefit from a tutorial short course offered by the University of Southern Mississippi.

Designed to help students improve their performance on the ACT, the preparation course will be held from 6-9 p.m. on April 1, 3, 8 and 10.

A $125 fee is required for the sessions, which will be held in Room 121 of the Home Economics Building on the USM campus.

A $25 pre-registration fee will ensure students a place in the course.

For more information about the short course, contact the USM Division of Lifelong Learning by writing Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5056, or call (601) 266-4186.

Animal shelter sponsoring children's poster contest

The Hancock Animal Shelter is sponsoring a poster contest for the children of Hancock County.

Theme of the poster design will be the Hancock Animal Shelter and how it helps and protects the people and pets of Hancock County.

Children who are residents of Hancock County and who are 12-years-old or younger are eligible to enter.

The winning design will be printed as posters and distributed to businesses throughout Hancock County for display.

Deadline for entries is April 15. Entries may be mailed to The Hancock Animal Commission, P. O. Box 125, Waveland, MS 39576, or taken to the Hancock Animal Shelter, Gulfside Drive, Waveland.

Schools having bulk entries may call for a pick-up at 467-0230 or 467-3461.

Designs should be executed on white paper using dark-colored crayons, markers, paints, cut-outs, stencils, etc. Pencil may not be used.

Children should print name, address, age and school on the back of their entries.

All entries become the property of the Hancock Animal Commission. For more information, please call 467-4628 (evenings).

BACKACHE

Research studies reveal certain clues which are signs of impending back problems. 1. carrying your head to one side. 2. a low shoulder. 3. a tilted hip. 4. pain at the base of your head or in the low all indicate signals of developing spinal problems. These are clues that the bone framework of the spine is being twisted out of shape, leading first to a weak spine, inviting more serious complications. Weak spines are subject to serious spinal displacements which can pinch nerves and lead to internal damage. Chiropractic care enjoys a wide reputation in the correction of spinal structural problems. If your back aches, call your doctor of Chiropractic and prevent serious complications.

Toll free legal line to operate

Between 6 and 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 2, a staff of volunteer attorneys will be answering legal questions from the general public at 1-374-4160, which is toll-free within the six southern counties of Mississippi and TTY/TDD-equipped for the deaf. Although the number is toll-free, those calls made from a pay telephone are not and must be made collect.

This service is sponsored by the Harrison County Young Lawyers, the South Mississippi Planning and Development District's Area Agency on Aging, and South Mississippi Legal Services Corporation.

The 'First Wednesday Legal Line' offers the public an opportunity to call for legal information and referral services for a specific problem. This service is especially intended for the elderly, handicapped and low-income individuals who may not have access to an attorney or who may not know whether their problem requires the assistance of one.

However, everyone with a question about the law is encouraged to call.

Savings on gas could equal week's pay, AAA says

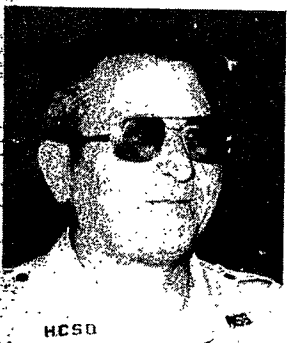

JACKSON—Reductions in gas prices have been so dramatic that a driver using 15 gallons of unleaded gas per week at current prices to drive to his minimum wage job would save the equivalent of one week's pay by year end, AAA Mississippi reports.

The AAA Fuel Gauge Survey shows Mississippi motorists buying gas over this Easter period at regular gas stations can expect to pay an average of $1.015 per gallon for self-service unleaded gas, 23.5 cents less than reported Christmas prices and 17.9 cents less than prices last Easter. Prices at discount stations and convenience stores, not included in the survey, are even less.

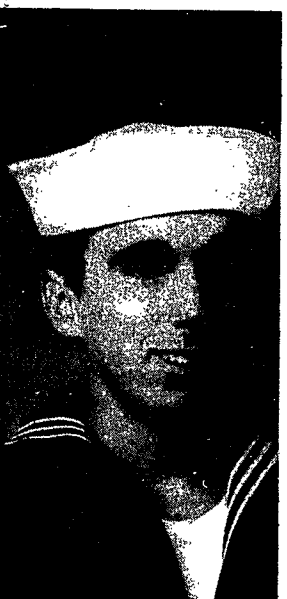

The state's lowest prices were reported in Jackson at $.924; the highest were in Greenville at $1.139. The nation's highest prices were reported in Connecticut with an average price of $1.147; Missouri had the lowest price at 79.1 cents per gallon.

More than one-half of the service stations surveyed by the Motor Club say they will remain open this holiday as compared to only 31 percent during the Christmas holidays; nevertheless AAA recommends filling up early to be on the safe side.

AAA also reminds motorists that seat belts save lives and should be used by all occupants of a car, regardless of the type of travel.

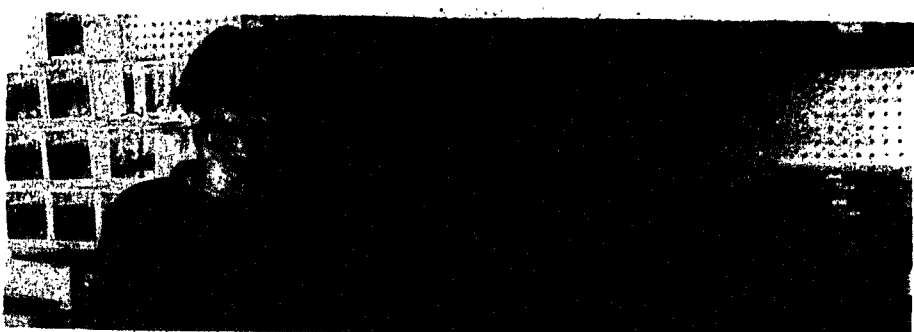

ACADEMY GRADUATE—Hancock County Deputy Sheriff George Burleson recently graduated from the Jackson Police Training Academy. Burleson, a deputy, had previously served as a jailer and dispatcher for the Hancock County sheriff's office. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Matters of Health

By Jennifer Steel, RN
West Jefferson
Hospital, Marrero, La.

Anytime, every day and almost anywhere, you and I see something or hear something about health.

This new feature may expand the health awareness you already have and just might prompt you to share it with someone else.

Good health knowledge and findings are meant to be shared. Each of you are individuals with different health needs, different personalities, different stresses and different knowledge about health learned over your lifetime.

This column may meet some of your needs for health awareness, but certainly not all of them.

Use your personal physician for specific health concerns and to help you tailor your individual health-style.

I will be sharing with you national and regional resources on health and health-related issues.

Much free health information is available for the asking.

As a health educator, I'd like to challenge you to take the Healthstyle Self Test of the National Health Information Clearinghouse.

As a registered nurse I'd like to challenge you to spend some time on self-watching and to especially look at self with respect to what you know you want to change.

Take one not so well thought of health behavior of yours - such as smoking for one.

The best time to work on changing something for a healthier you is today, even now. Put out the cigarette, throw away the pack. Feel good about getting healthy for a healthstyle you can live with!

Health experts agree that as many as seven of the ten leading causes of death can be reduced by lifestyle changes.

Your recognizing these health risks (those factors increasing your chances of developing lifestyle diseases) can result in your reducing your personal risk for the diseases.

Take the healthstyle challenge quiz for ideas on changes that you can begin today, even now.

And don't forget, share this with a friend. If you'd like additional copies of the healthstyle test, or any other information, call or write me: Jennifer Steel, R.N., Patient and Community Education, West Jefferson General Hospital, 1101 Avenue "D", Marrero, Louisiana 70072, (504) 347-5511, ext. 1609.

healthstyle a self-test Quiz emphasizes healthy lifestyle

All of us want good health. But many of us do not know how to be as healthy as possible. Health experts now describe lifestyle as one of the most important factors affecting health.

In fact, it is estimated that as many as seven of the ten leading causes of death could be reduced through common-sense changes in lifestyle.

What this brief test, developed by the Public Health Service, is all about is simply to tell you how well you are doing to stay behaviors covered in the test are recommended for most Americans. Some of them may not apply to persons with certain chronic diseases or handicaps, or to pregnant women.

Such persons may require special instructions from their physicians.

What Your Scores Mean

Scores of 9 and 10

Excellent! Your answers show that you are aware of the importance of this area to your health. More important, you are putting your knowledge to work for you by practicing good health habits. As long as you continue to do so, this area should not pose a serious health risk. It's likely that you are setting an example for your family and friends to follow. Since you got a very high test score on this part of the test, you may want to consider other areas where your scores indicate room for improvement.

Scores of 6 to 8

Your health practices in this area are good, but there is room for improvement. Look again at the items you answered with a 'Sometimes' or 'Almost Never.' What changes can you make to improve your score? Even a small change can often help you achieve better health.

Scores of 3 to 5

Your health risks are showing! Would you like more information about the risks you are facing and about why it is important for you to change these behaviors? Perhaps you need help in deciding how to successfully make the changes you desire. In either case, help is available.

Scores of 0 to 2

Obviously, you were concerned enough about your health to take the test, but your answers show that you may be taking serious and unnecessary risks with your health. Perhaps you are not aware of the risks and what to do about them. You can easily get the information and help you need to improve, if you wish. The next step is up to you.

In the test you just completed were numerous suggestions to help you reduce your risk of disease and premature death. Here are some of the most significant:

Avoid cigarettes. Cigarette smoking is the single most important preventable cause of illness and early death. It is especially risky for pregnant women and their unborn babies. Persons who stop smoking reduce their risk of getting heart disease and cancer. So if you're a cigarette smoker, think twice about lighting that next cigarette. If you choose to continue smoking, try decreasing the number of cigarettes you smoke and switching to a low tar and nicotine brand.

Follow sensible drinking habits. Alcohol produces changes in mood and behavior. Most people who drink are able to control their intake of alcohol and to avoid undesired, and often harmful, effects. Heavy regular use of alcohol can lead to cirrhosis of the liver, a leading cause of death. Also, statistics clearly show that mixing drinking and driving is often the cause of fatal or crippling accidents. So if you drink, do it wisely and in moderation. Use care in taking drugs. Today's greater use of drugs—both legal and illegal—is one of our most serious health risks. Even some drugs prescribed by your doctor can be dangerous if taken when drinking alcohol or before driving. Excessive or continued use of tranquilizers (or 'pep pills') can cause physical and mental problems. Using or experimenting with illicit drugs such as marijuana, heroin, cocaine, and PCP may lead to a number of damaging effects or even death.

Eat sensibly. Overweight individuals are at greater risk for diabetes, gall bladder disease, and high blood pressure. So it makes good sense to maintain proper weight. But good eating habits also mean holding down the amount of fat (especially saturated fat), cholesterol, sugar and salt in your diet. If you must snack, try nibbling on fresh fruits and vegetables. You'll feel better—and look better, too.

Exercise Regularly. Almost everyone can benefit from exercise—and there's some form of exercise almost everyone can do. (If you have any doubt, check first with your doctor.) Usually, as little as 15-30 minutes of vigorous exercise three times a week will help you have a healthier heart, eliminate excess weight, tone up sagging muscles, and sleep better. Think of how much difference all these improvements could make in the way you feel!

Learn to handle stress. Stress is a normal part of living; everyone faces it to some degree. The causes of stress can be good or bad, desirable or undesirable (such as a promotion on the job or the loss of a spouse). Properly handled, stress need not be a problem. But unhealthy responses to stress—such as driving too fast or erratically, drinking too much, or prolonged anger or grief—can cause a variety of physical and mental problems. Even on a very busy day, find a few minutes to slow down and relax. Talking over a problem with someone you trust can often help you find a satisfactory solution. Learn to distinguish between things that are "worth fighting about" and things that are less important.

Be safety conscious. Think "safety first" at home, at work, at school, at play, and on the highway. Buckle seat belts and obey traffic rules. Keep poisons and weapons out of the reach of children, and keep emergency numbers by your telephone. When the unexpected happens, you'll be prepared.

Where Do You Go From Here?

Start by asking yourself a few frank questions: Am I really doing all I can to be as healthy as possible? What steps can I take to feel better? Am I willing to begin now?

If you scored low in one or more sections of the test, decide what changes you want to make for improvement. You might pick that aspect of your lifestyle where you feel you have the best chance for success and tackle that one first. Once you have improved your score there, go on to other areas.

If you already have tried to change your health habits (to stop smoking or exercise regularly, for example), don't be discouraged if you haven't yet succeeded. The difficulty you have encountered may be due to influences you've never really thought about—such as advertising—or to a lack of support and encouragement. Understanding these influences is an important step toward changing the way they affect you.

There's help available. In addition to personal actions you can take on your own, there are community programs and groups (such as the YMCA or the local chapter of the American Heart Association) that can assist you and your family to make the changes you want to make.

If you want to know more about these groups or about health risks, contact your local health department or the National Health Information Clearinghouse.

There's a lot you can do to stay healthy or to improve your health—and there are organizations that can help you. Start a new 'Healthstyle' today!

David Cox is SSC 1986 Star Student

Brother Celestine Algero, principal of St. Stanislaus High School, announced that senior David Cox of Bay St. Louis has been named as the school's Star Student by the Mississippi Economic Council's Student Teacher Achievement Recognition Program.

DAVID COX

The election was based on the student's high scholastic average for the first semester and his score on the American College Test.

Cox selected Brother Bennet as the Star Teacher because in Cox's opinion, "He has made the greatest contribution to my scholastic achievement."

Cox, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Jacob of Bay St. Louis, is presently in his sixth year at St. Stanislaus. He is a member of the Drama Club, the St. Stanislaus Weightlifting Club, and Project Do—a school service organization.

He served as treasurer of the National Honor Society and captain of the Prep Quiz Bowl Team.

He was selected senator when he represented St. Stanislaus at Mississippi Boys' State. He will attend Loyola University in New Orleans next year on a presidential scholarship.

Brother Bennet, a native of New Orleans, La., has been at St. Stanislaus for 17 years. Prior to that time he taught in Houma, La.; Muskogee, Okla.; Thibodaux, La.; and Mobile, Ala.

At St. Stanislaus he teaches religion and serves as guidance counselor.

He is moderator of the St. Stanislaus Weightlifting Club and national president of the American Drug Free Powerlifting Association. He is the son of Mrs. W.R. Bishop of Baton Rouge and the late W.R. Bishop.

JSU accepting applications for GM scholarships

Jackson State University is now accepting applications for General Motors/Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Scholarships for the 1986-87 school year.

The scholarships, funded through a General Motors Corporation grant, are designed for minorities and women.

Applicants should be employees of General Motors and its subsidiaries and must enroll as full-time undergraduate students at the University for the 1986-87 fall semester. Spouses and children of GM employees are also eligible.

Applications are available from the JSU Development Foundation, Inc., P.O. Box 17050, Jackson State University, Jackson, Miss., 39217. The deadline for applications is March 29, 1986.

For additional information call Obra Hackett, executive secretary of the JSU Development Foundation, at 601/968-2282.

Statewide testing scheduled April 1-3

April 1, 2 and 3 mark "T" days in Mississippi as thousands of students participate in the statewide testing program mandated by the Education Reform Act of 1982.

"This will be the first time we've tested statewide in grades 3, 5, and 8," said State Superintendent of Education, Dr. Richard Boyd. "Last year, 27,000 11th-graders took the first functional literacy test we've administered in the state."

Almost 146,000 students in all four grades are expected to take the tests. That figure is based upon fall enrollments for the current school year.

Results from the tests will be used to assess statewide academic progress. In addition, results from the 11th-grader functional literacy test will eventually be used to determine if students receive high school diplomas in Mississippi. Currently, this test is still being piloted and won't be required for graduation purposes until the 1988-89 school year.

"While this is quite an ambitious program which requires a lot of work, we're excited about the ways we'll be able to use test results to help improve education in Mississippi," Boyd said. "We plan to release results of these tests later this year, probably sometime in late July."

Special Arts Festival slated in Picayune

The Gulf Coast West District Regional Very Special Arts Festival will be held at the Community Center in Picayune on April 11. The festival will begin at 9 a.m. and end at approximately 2 p.m. The festival program is now in its seventh year of providing an opportunity for disabled people to share their works and accomplishments with an interested audience. A wide variety of demonstrations, exhibits and performances by disabled individuals, art educators, classroom teachers and artists are included in the festival. The goals of the program are to encourage and stimulate feelings of self-worth and to provide opportunities for handicapped individuals to express their talents in areas where there are no handicaps - the arts. All schools in Hancock County are welcome to participate in this festival.

Marine science courses offered

Gulf Coast Research Laboratory will offer three marine science mini-courses for adults during April at the J. L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi.

MEC assistant curator Errol White and aquarist Robert Westbrook will be the instructors for "Alternate Methods of Recreational Fishing" on four consecutive Tuesday nights from 7-9 p.m. beginning April 1. Participants will learn about fishing methods and equipment, other than hook-and-line, used in the acquisition of edible seafood. Netting, trapping, floundering, soft-shelling, and other methods will be discussed and demonstrated.

Symbiosis, the intimate interaction of two different organisms in a mutually beneficial relationship, will be explored in "Living Together in the Sea," a mini-course to be taught on four consecutive Wednesday nights from 7-9 p.m. beginning April 2. GCRL biotechnician Leslie Bruce, instructor for the course, will focus on symbiotic relationships of marine plants and animals, including those found in local waters.

Charles Eleuterius, head of the GCRL physical oceanography section, will be the instructor for "Sea, Swell, Surf and Tides," the Thursday evening class to be conducted for four consecutive weeks beginning April 3. The students will learn about waves and tides and how they are affected by winds, atmospheric pressure, bottom contour and earth movement. Participants will become knowledgeable about Mississippi's coastal currents and tides and will learn how to apply correction factors to tide tables.

GCRL marine science mini-courses, designed for the learning pleasure of adults, are now being opened to interested high school students. No prior knowledge of the subject matter is required. Cost of each class is $20, and gift certificates are available for those who would like to give a mini-course as a gift.

Interested persons are asked to pre-register at the Marine Education Center and may call 374-5550 for more information.

News Brief

SCHOLASTIC PRESS INSTITUTE
Some 1,000 high school newspaper and yearbook staff members and advisers are expected to attend the annual Mississippi Scholastic Press Institute at The University of Mississippi April 4.

Sponsored by the Ole Miss Department of Journalism and coordinated by the Division of Continuing Education, the institute helps participants improve their publications.

A roster of 12 professional journalists and publications specialists will head three track sessions for yearbook and newspaper staffs and faculty advisers, which will provide advice on layout and design, legal and ethical responsibilities, sportswriting, photography, staff organization, fund raising.

For more information, contact Continuing Education at (601) 232-7282.

DEPRESSION

One of the most common of mental illnesses and one of the most treatable.

When does a temporary depression become a clinical depression? How can you tell when someone you love — or perhaps yourself — needs help? These symptoms are easy to recognize:

- Sleeping too much — or insomnia
- Confusion, inability to make decisions
- Loss of energy, fatigue
- Guilt feelings, lack of self-worth
- Lack of interest in work or play
- Loss of weight or excessive weight gain

DON'T IGNORE A GOOD LIFE!

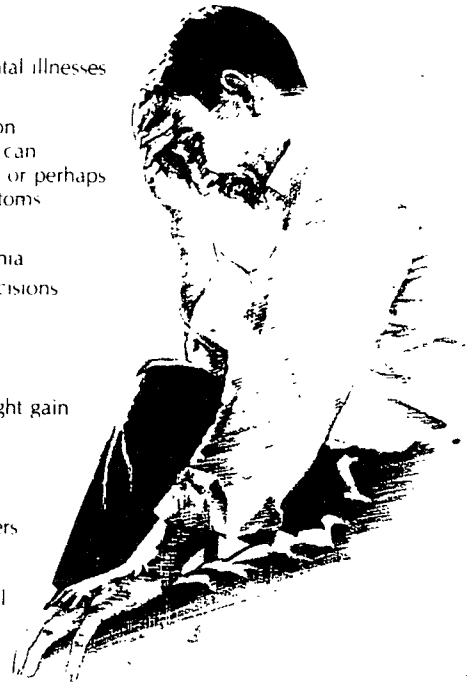

At Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic, an exceptional psychiatric and counseling staff is trained to help others with emotional problems associated with depression. Special programs have been developed to fit individual needs.

Help is available — and so near. Call one of our counselors today.
